- 21 “2nd Annual Seed to Roots Youth Arts Performance”- 6PM at the Weinberg Center for the Arts. Each performance must pay homage to Black History or culture in some way. The student artist will be given liberty to describe the performance's relevance to Black History/culture on the application. Examples may include music written by Black songwriters, choreography/costuming inspired by Black artists or performing original works with historical references. The 2022 Seed to Roots program will be produced as a live show with an audience at the Weinberg Center for the Arts.
- 22 “An Evening with Nikki Giovanni” – Hood College Hodson Auditorium. 7 pm
- 23 “The Decades Old History of Black Lives Matter” – Virtual Webinar; 5 pm. AARCH Society. In the summer of 2020, Black Lives Matter marches dominated the news in Frederick. While many believe this movement to be less than ten years old, Black Fredericktonians have been voicing concern over the lack of value of Black lives far beyond this period of unrest. In her presentation, historian Michelle D. Wright, who recently completed seminal historical research on African Americans in Frederick for the Society, will provide an overview of the history of movements in Frederick that asserted that Black lives have historically mattered. Registration required at <https://us02web.zoom.us/join/joinMeeting?meetingId=91234567890>
